JURORS

MICHAEL STOLZER is an artist and gallery owner who divides his residence between New York City and Oneonta, NY. His personal work includes painting and figurative sculpture and can be found in numerous museum collections, galleries and private collections. Among his professional achievements have been collaboration with Yoko Ono in preparing bronze works for the Whitney Museum, the Smithsonian and the Venice Biennial. His gallery in Oneonta exhibits regional artists.

KATHERYN LESOINE is an artist living and working in Montrose, PA whose work combines her original medium of photography with en caustic. Her art began with images from her garden and has transitioned to the abstract investigating the possibilities in different papers and pigments with beeswax.

CATHY ROSA KLIMASZEWSKI is the Associate Director/Harriet Ames Charitable Trust Curator of Education at the Herbert F. Johnson Museum, Cornell University, in Ithaca, NY. She has curated numerous exhibitions with an expertise in fiber arts and wood. Her professional experience includes artist, educator and museum professional; she adds a multi-faceted perspective to the jurying process.
